

Elementary School

Code of Conduct

All our students respect the property of others.

We don't damage other people's property—so we take care not to break anyone's calculators, tear anyone's books, or make marks on the school walls.

We don't take other people's property without asking, so we don't borrow even a pencil or sheet of paper without asking and getting permission, and we certainly don't take and keep things that don't belong to us.

We understand that people own the songs, artwork, and stories that they make up, so we don't take or use anyone's "intellectual property" without permission.

When we have permission to use someone else's ideas, we are careful to say "thank you" publicly to the person who had the original ideas. We take pride in the things we own, especially things we have created, and respect the rights of everyone else to the things they own.

creativity
in the Classroom

Developed by MENC: The National Association for Music Education with the generous support of the ASCAP Foundation and the cooperation of the National Association of Secondary School Principals, the National Association of Elementary School Principals, the National Schools Boards Association, the U.S. Register of Copyrights, and the American Bar Association. Complete materials are available at www.menc.org/copyright.

MENC The National Association for MUSIC
EDUCATION
1806 Robert Fulton Drive ■ Reston, VA 20191
703-860-4000 ■ Fax 703-860-1531 ■ www.menc.org

