I imagine music as a story so here is the story that was told.

Once upon a time there was a little note. He didn't know what kind of note so he named himself Note. Note wanted some friends. So he made a staff but nothing came out. So then he made a piano and nothing came out. Then like a flash of light two hands appeared. They started to play the piano. Notes started to pop out of the piano. Note made lots of friends.

Then two old notes came out. Note asked them, "Will you be my parents?"

They said, "Yes." So they named him Mozart. Then they lived happily ever after.
