Twelve Tri-M Students Recognized as All-Americans

On January 5, 2008, the nation's finest high school senior marching musicians from across the country performed at halftime of the U.S. Army All-American Bowl in San Antonio, Texas, for tens of thousands of audience members. Twelve of the 93 All-American students are members of the Tri-M Music Honor Society, including drum major Michael Blakley of Frankfort,

Thanks to the generous sponsors, these students received an all-expenses-paid trip and were each honored last fall in a formal, individualized presentation to announce their acceptance during a hometown media event. The Bowl itself was a once-in-a-lifetime experience for these Tri-M members and their fellow All-American Band members. Molly Underwood, a Tri-M member at North Lincoln High School in North Carolina, remarked, "This was the best band experience I have ever had."

Miss Philadelphia Receives Alumni Achievement Award from Villa Maria Chapter 1227

Villa Maria Academy, Malvern, PA

By Jacqueline Coffey, Publicity Chair

On November 14, 2007, the Music Department of Villa Maria Academy held its Tri-M Induction Ceremony. The newly inducted music students and returning members of Chapter 1227 were fortunate to hear the keynote speaker and musical performer of the night, former Miss Philadelphia Mary Kaye Jacono, a 2000 graduate of Villa Maria.

While a student at Villa Maria, Mary Kaye was Vice President of the Tri-M Chapter and a member of the orchestra, chorus, and Madrigal Singers. In 2006, she received the title of Miss Philadelphia, along with a $10,000 scholarship toward her law school education. Her devotion to child advocacy and helping the less fortunate earned her an official proclamation from the Philadelphia City Council in recognition of her service. She was also a runner-up to Miss Pennsylvania.

Throughout her speech, Ms. Jacono emphasized her appreciation for the leadership skills and determination that she gained through her Tri-M position. She admits that without the guidance she received from her music instructors at Villa Maria, she would have never discovered her musical talents. Ms. Jacono inspired the music students and leaders of Villa Maria to use the talents they've been given to improve the community. She plans on continuing her community service and hopes that the guidance of the Villa Maria Academy Music Department will inspire others to become leaders in their community. In recognition of her community leadership, Chapter 1227 presented Ms. Jacono with the Alumni Achievement Award.

Guiderland Supports Local Health Clinic

Chapter 3678

Guiderland High School, Guiderland, NY

By Katie Matthews and Karl Barber, Co-Presidents

This past October, Tri-M teamed up with National Honor Society (NHS) and Students for Improving Health Care (SIHC) to organize a recital to benefit Compassion in Action, a free health clinic in nearby Albany. The recital included entertainment by senior Tri-M members, plus a flower sale, silent auction, and raffle.

Our chapter's main task was to coordinate the recital. After chasing seniors down to sign up, publicizing the event in local and school media, typing the recital program, emceeing the event, and organizing performers backstage (including ourselves), it was a joy to count the money. We raised $500 toward the overall high school donation of $1,500.

While it may not seem like much money, $500 worth of healthcare could provide medications to a sick child for a year, and could be used for an emergency surgery or for five x-rays to diagnose broken bones. The publicity the clinic received from the event was substantial and has generated local attention and community donations. People who would ordinarily only be able to find healthcare in an emergency room will have the opportunity to be treated by Dr. Paeglow, the clinic's doctor, due in part to the efforts of Guiderland's Tri-M, NHS, and SIHC organizations. We're happy to say Tri-M has made a difference.

Fremd Tri-M Discovers the Heart of Music

Chapter 1239

William Fremd High School, Palatine, IL

By Xioahan Ma, Vice President

The world is built on the contributions made by the generations before us. Fremd's music students chose to thank them through the beauty of music. I founded Heart of Music in 2006, a nonprofit group of musicians that tours the neighborhood nursing homes. As a Tri-M officer, I integrated Heart of Music into Fremd's Tri-M chapter, which broadened the member base significantly. The enthusiasm my fellow music students show for Heart of Music is truly uplifting to see in high school students today. Heart of Music has turned into an agency for various music ensembles, from a cappella groups to woodwind ensembles, to share their talents with those who appreciate them the most. It's that simple tap of the foot or the beautiful smile on an elderly person's face that makes it truly the heart of music.

East High Focuses on Musical Community Service

Chapter 5490

East High School, Wichita, KS

By Ragini Venkatasubban, Treasurer

This year, members of the Wichita East High School Tri-M chapter are using our musical talents to serve the community. Many of our members regularly visit local middle schools to give free private lessons to underprivileged students. Currently, the group is planning a spring benefit concert. The show will raise money for the Kansas Humane Society and will feature performing groups from our orchestra, band, choir, and jazz band. We're working on getting local businesses to donate baskets that will be auctioned off during the event.

We're very excited about our work, and are very thankful to Tri-M for giving us a forum to help empower others through the gift of music.

International Focus: Ontario Chapter Spreads Holiday Cheer

Chapter 2351

By Michelle Kam, Tri-M Member, and Faith Lau, President

One way the Unionville High School Tri-M Chapter fulfills our goal of promoting music in our community is by providing musical entertainment at local senior homes on Friday afternoons. In December, many of our Tri-M members participated in a holiday performance at Sunrise Senior Home. We performed Christmas classics led by solo singers, group carolers, and our very own wind septet. We also led Christmas caroling for the seniors, enabling them to join in the celebration.

This was the first Tri-M community event for many of our new members, who had a highly positive response. New member Lucy Tong said, "Since we shared this special holiday with the seniors in our community, an invaluable bond was created through the magic of music." Tze Yeung Ho remarked, "I think this event was helpful toward the performers' independence and musicianship." Wendy Wen chimed in, "I played Christmas carols on my flute with the ensemble. The place was really nice and so were the people there. It felt really good to be entertaining the seniors and listening to them sing along with us."

Tri-M chapters across the U.S. also shared the joy of the holiday season with others.

Our Tri-M chapter will present five $50 gift certificates to our counseling supervisor for needy families in our school district.

So far we have had a successful bake sale to raise money for the St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital, a haircutting fund raiser to collect money for the Susan G. Kommen Breast Cancer Awareness Society, and an electronic postcard mailing to the troops in Iraq (sponsored by Xerox). In addition to this, the members will participate in the March of Dimes "March For Babies" event. This event was originally called the March of Dimes "Walk-A-Thon" and our chapter has been involved with it for the past four years.

All proceeds from the concert went to the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society in honor of two individuals: Lori O'Neill (mother of a 2007 Stuart graduate and former choir booster president, diagnosed with leukemia) and Nancy Svensden (former ESOL teacher of Stuart High School who passed away from leukemia). The concert raised close to $800 for this worthy cause! Acts ranged widely from marimba solos to choral trios to rock band numbers.

More recently, we adopted two families from Salem County through the local Red Cross. We got presents so they could have something to open on Christmas, and got together for a wrapping party. We also collected donations for the Salem County Humane Society at our winter concert and presented the donations to the organization at our show.

Midview Hosts Middie Mania Chapter 2522

Midview High School, Grafton, OH

By Jessica Boyd, President

Midview High School Tri-M organizes an annual talent show called Middie Mania for students and the community. Middie Mania is a local version of American Idol, and every week, groups are voted off by the audience. At the last of three shows, the final five acts perform. These acts are then ranked from one to five, and all five acts receive a cash prize. We have three judges: two regular judges and a guest judge. The students involved in Tri-M collect money, count votes, and serve as the stage crew, vote runners, and ushers. The students in our troupe collect donations from local organizations to help pay for the prizes and judges. We also collect door prizes and a raffle. With the extra money, our Tri-M chapter organizes a trip—this year we plan to attend a Broadway show. This has been the second year of Middie Mania, and we hope to continue this activity for many years to come!

Backstage Pass: Stamford Meets Wynton Marsalis!

Chapter 1139

Stamford High School, Stamford, CT

By Elize Huang, Historian

Thanks to the generosity of the Stamford Center for the Arts (SCA), Stamford High's Tri-M chapter can say that they've not only witnessed the amazing musicianship of Wynton Marsalis, but they've also met him in person! The SCA graciously gave the students tickets to “Jazz at Lincoln Center Orchestra with Wynton Marsalis.”

The performance was jam-packed with jazzy tunes and impressive solos. Wynton Marsalis' renowned trumpeting skills and stage presence captivated the audience as he paced around the stage, jiving with his fellow musicians and drawing the audience deeper into the music.

After the show, Tri-M members had the privilege of going backstage. As they walked into the room to meet Wynton Marsalis, he graciously stepped away from his chess game with trombone player Elliot Mason to talk to them. The advice that he and Walter Blanding, saxophonist and clarinetist, gave to aspiring musicians was that practice and a strong passion are absolute necessities to becoming a professional musician.

Overall, the night was filled with infectious music and memorable encounters, and is one that the Tri-M members will not soon forget.

Supporting a worthwhile charity and listening to great music seems like a win-win situation. In September, Cardinal Gibbons Tri-M staged the first Battle of the Bands, which gave students the opportunity to partake in both activities. The event took place in the CGHS gym to raise money for the Ronald McDonald House, an organization that helps support families while their children are receiving treatment in a nearby hospital.

Eleven outstanding bands participated, and musical styles ran the gamut from punk to reggae. The nearly four hundred enthusiastic fans voted for their top three bands, each of which received a cash prize. At the Ronald McDonald Charities of Fort Lauderdale Holiday of Lights Event, Tri-M members presented to Ronald himself a check in the amount of $1,450 from the Battle of the Bands proceeds. Based on the event's success and the participants' reactions, the Tri-M chapter plans to make this an annual happening.

From the National Chair

Dear Tri-M Friends,

With my term as chair coming to a close, I'd like to share what I've learned in the last couple of years.

After meeting and working with so many of the wonderful, gifted young people across the country, I can say without a doubt that this is truly a youth-rich country. My wish is that on the evening news we could shine the light on some of you who work hard at school, home, and in the community. These are the stories we need to hear—the songs of hope and pride. I have always loved what Tri-M stands for. Thanks to all of you, I see what a difference this program makes not only in your own communities, but across the nation and abroad. This is a global organization, and we need to start looking at the world as a much smaller place. Everything we do that changes our environment for the better is what we must strive for. We must learn mutual understanding and pass it on.

Music is an international key. There is not a country in this world that does not value the power of music. It has been on this earth since the beginning of time, from the simplest beating of a stick on a rock to the complicated melodies we hear today. It has expressed great sorrow and even greater joy!

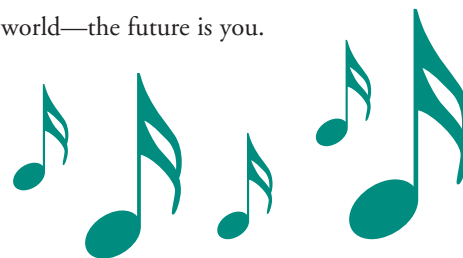

Not everyone will be a world-famous musician, but you can all be great people. Get involved and stay involved.

I finish my last letter to you with this parting thought: I am so proud to be a part of this organization that has allowed me the opportunity of seeing what outstanding young adults we have worldwide.

I have seen the future of our world—the future is you.

Best wishes,

Colleen Smiley
