I imagine a world that every school has a good music program, because music is wonderful and it should be a part of everyone's life. I imagine a music class where everyone can express themselves with their different vocal styles, everyone's different in a special way, no one is the same. And now I say I am thankful for the wonderful music program we have now, but in the future I hope we can help countries that don't have any music programs at all, and provide them with the supplies they need to have music programs. Now I hope my words come to reality in the future. This is what I hope and imagine.
