I imagine the hum of kazoos, the deep strum of the cello, the rich sweet sound of a viola, the high gentle sound of a piano, and the whistle of a recorder. A life without music would be a life without fun. Music changes the way you feel and think, the way you act, and the way you live. Without music, the world would be close to muted. Music keeps the world filled with sound and happiness. Music is all around you, from the rush of streams to the screeching brakes of cars. If there was no music, there would be no whistling, no birds chirping in the morning, and no instruments. The world would be dull without music.
