I imagine a world without music. A world without music is like a cricket without its chime. The nights would be silent. Without music, no one would be cheerful. The world would be quiet and dark with gloomy people.

No one would have the minds to sing or dance. For the rhythm and beat made the dance groovy, and singing made it smooth and calm. There would be no joy or instruments. For without music, notes are forgotten.

A world without music is like a sparrow not tweeting in the morning mist! Mornings would be dull and quiet. Think if suddenly the President decided all music was forbidden in the world. Our world would never be joyful without music and laughing. Like it is today. Don't you think so too?
